2013 HAWK INLET TEST FISHERY UPDATE #2

The department conducted the second of the 2013 Hawk Inlet shoreline test fisheries today, with very different results from last week's fishery. All four sets were conducted and total catches of all species but coho were below average. The pink salmon harvest was approximately 73% of the ten-year average for the week, and the chum and sockeye salmon harvests were 30% and 87% of the 10-year average respectively.

The pink salmon sex ratio was 60% male, somewhat lower than the average of 66% male for previous years test fisheries conducted on or about this date.

Hawk Inlet test fishery updates will be posted on the ADF&G web site listed below.
